Draw each animal in exercise 1 in its habitat.

animals in danger.

1 Read the text about animals in danger.

More than 550 species of mammals are in danger of extinction. Why do animals become extinct? Often it's because people destroy their habitat and the food they eat. Sometimes it's because people hunt them for their fur or their meat. Did you know that about half of the world's animal species live in the South American rain forests? Each year people destroy part of the rain forest as big as the country of Switzerland. Why do they do this? Because they want to build new farms and roads.

Why are sea animals in danger of extinction as well? Because people pollute the oceans. They throw chemical waste and sewage into the water. Sometimes there are accidents at sea and oil from oil tankers flows into the water, too. This destroys the animal food supply.

Scientists started the World Wildlife Fund in 1961 to help protect animals in danger of extinction. Help the World Wildlife Fund to help the animals of our planet.

2 Make a poster for an animal in danger of extinction.

Unit 8
Lesson 7

Jimmy was in bed reading a book about the Tyrannosaurus Rex, the most dangerous of the meat-eating dinosaurs.

"Go to sleep, now, Jimmy!" said his mom.

"I'm doing my homework," said Jimmy.

That night Jimmy had a nightmare. A Tyrannosaurus Rex was sitting on him!

"Why are you here?" asked Jimmy.

"Because I'm hungry," said the dinosaur.

"And YOU are my food!"

The dinosaur took Jimmy's hand.

"Why are you holding my hand?" asked Jimmy.

"Because I'm going to eat your hand first ..."

"Oh no, you're not!" shouted Jimmy.

"Why are you shouting?" asked his mom.

"Because there's a dinosaur on me!" said Jimmy.

Mom laughed. There wasn't a dinosaur on his tummy. There was just a huge book about the life of the Tyrannosaurus Rex.
